PREFACE TO THE FIRST PRINTED CATALOGUE.*

(COMPILED BY THE REV. MR. BRET.)

IT is now juſt upon an hundred Years ſince this Library (the Propriety of which is in the City of Norwich) and the Catalogue whereof here follows, was firſt founded, and deſign'd for the Uſe and Benefit of the Gentry and Clergy, in, and near this Place. The Uſefulneſs and Neceſſity of a Publick Library in this City, for the Clergy here eſpecially, is very evident, where the mean Proviſion for their Maintenance will not allow them to lay out much on Books, and conſequently without the uſe of ſuch a Library, they muſt neceſſarily be much hindred in the Proſecution of their Studies. But 'tis not neceſſary to enlarge on this. It may be more proper to obſerve, that upon the firſt Foundation of this Library, many and great Benefactions, (by which alone it was firſt raiſed, and ſtill encreaſes) were given by the Magiſtrates, Gentlemen and Tradeſmen of this City, by which means, here is no inconfiderable Collection of Divinity Book, for that time eſpecially. But conſidering the great Advance of Learning, in the laſt Century, the fine Editions of many of the Fathers, and the many learned Books that were then publiſhed, it muſt be owned, that this Library is now very deficient, even in Divinity itself. Besides here are very few Humanity Books, few or none of Law, Physick, Mathematicks, or indeed of any Science but Divinity. It is greatly therefore to be wish'd, that a Spirit of Bounty poffessed those to whom God hath given Abilities, to enlarge this Library, by which they might become Instruments of promoting Learning amongst us, and which is far better (as a consequence of that) the Glory of God and Salvation of Men. And it must not be diffembled, that an Eye to this, was the great motive, and main end of Publishing this Catalogue. 'Tis probable, there are many Charitable and Bountiful Persons, that would chearfully encourage such an useful Design, did they know of it. This is highly probable, from the many Benefactions that were given, within the first Twenty Years after the Foundation of this Library (as appears by the respective Donations, which are Recorded with the Names of the Donours, in a Vellum Book kept in the Library for that purpose) when, no question, the thing was much talked of, and well known. But afterwards, this ceasing, as publick Discourse of any thing naturally falls by degrees, Benefactions came very slowly in, and no great encrease hath been made to the Library for some late Years. And this stop is the rather to be ascrib'd to this, because since the publishing of this Catalogue was first talked off, which is now about six Months since, and so the Library more spoke of, and known, there have been more Books given, than for a considerable time before, for which Reasons 'tis hoped, that the Publishing and Dispersing this Catalogue may have its well intended design effected.

* NORWICH · Printed (in 1706) by Eliz. Burges, near the Red-Well.

But besides this, it hath been farther consider'd, that this Catalogue may be particularly useful, for those that are, or shall be admitted to the use of this Library, for by this they will more easily know what Books the Library affords, and save themselves many an unnecessary Journey to it, in hopes to find a Book they may have occasion for, and is not there to be met with, for each Person having a Catalogue by him, he may in his own Closet see what Books are there.

By Interleaving this Catalogue with spare Paper, on which may be added such Books as shall be given, it may serve for many Years, even till the number of Books here be doubled, which when, (as is greatly to be wished for) it shall be, a new Edition of the Catalogue may be expected.

THE SECOND EDITION,* COMPILED BY THE LIBRARIAN,

IS DEDICATED

To the Right WORSHIPFUL

ROBERT MARSH, Esqr; MAYOR,

The Worshipful

The Sheriffs, Aldermen, and Common-Council,

OF THE

CITY of NORWICH.

GENTLEMEN,

IT is now about an Hundred and Twenty Years since this Library was first Founded, (the Propriety of which is Solely in the City of Norwich) and designed for the Use and Benefit of the Studious in this City; as is mentioned in the Foundation-Book, which begins thus, Bibliotheca Publica Norwicensis communi Studioforum Bono instituta, incepta, et inchoata fuit. Anno 1608. The Usefulness and Necessity of a Publick Library in a City, is very evident, where such of the Clergy who are but meanly provided for, and cannot afford to lay out much Money on Books, may from hence be supplied with such as may be most necessary and useful to them; the Gentlemen and Tradesmen may here supply themselves with such as their different Tastes lead them to, such as Lives, Characters, Voyages, Travels and History in Abundance.

* NORWICH: Printed by William Chafe, in the Cockey-Lane.

IT muſt be confeſſed, and gratefully ought to be acknowledged, that this Library was Founded chiefly by the Great and Generous Benefactions of many of the Magiſtrates, who ſetting ſo good an Example, were preſently followed by ſeveral Gentlemen, Gentlewomen and Tradeſmen of this City, by which Means here is no inconfiderable Collection of Books in Divinity, for that Time eſpecially; But ſince the Addition of Mr. Nelſon's whole Library, which conſiſts chiefly in modern Divinity, Hiſtory, &c. Great Numbers have been added by others, ſuch as the preſent Lord Biſhop of St. Aſaph, John Jermy, Eſq; Edmund Pridcaux, Eſq; Mr. John Kirkpatrick and others; ſo that this Library is far from being meanly provided with Books (I wiſh I could ſay in all Faculties,) though I verily believe, there are many Charitable and Bountiful Perſons that would chearfully Incourage ſuch an Uſeful Deſign, did they KNOW of it: This is highly probable from the many Benefactions that were given within the firſt Twenty Years after the Foundation of this Library, (as appears by the reſpective Donations which are recorded with the Names of the Donors, in a Vellum-Book kept in the Library for that Purpoſe) when, no queſtion, the thing was much talked of and well Known: But afterwards this ceaſing, as publick Diſcourſe of any thing naturally falls by Degrees, Benefactions came but very ſlowly in, and no great Increaſe have been made for ſome Years, untill another Catalogue have been talked of being to be publiſhed, ſince which there have been more Books given (as the Rev. Mr. Bret obſerved in his Preface to the firſt Catalogue) than for ſeveral Years before; for which Reaſon 'tis hoped that the publiſhing and diſperſing this Catalogue may have its well-intended Deſign effected.

BUT beſides this, it may be a great Advantage to have several of the Catalogues dispersed amongst the Magistrates, Gentlemen, Tradesmen, &c. of this City, that by their seeing what Books are there Already, they may avoid giving Duplicates.

THIS Catalogue may be particularly useful for those that are or shall be admitted to the Use of this Library; for by this, they will easily know what Books the Library affords, and save themselves many an unnecessary Journey to it, in hopes to find a Book they may have Occasion for, and is not there to be met with; for each Person having a Catalogue by him, he may in his own Closet see what Books are there.

THAT this CITY may ever be blest with as Prudent and Impartial a Prime Magistrate as YOU, SIR, that Now presides over it, and that it may flourish as much in its Trade as it doth with Loyal Magistrates; that useful Knowledge and Learning may daily increase, and that true Piety and Virtue may be the Chief Aim of all its Inhabitants, is the Sincere and Hearty Wish of,

GENTLEMEN,

Your most Obedient and most

Humble Servant to Command,

BENJAMIN MACKERELL,

BIBLIOTHECARIUS.

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION.

THE hope expressed by Mr. Mackerell in the second edition of the catalogue, viz., that its publication would be productive of considerable additions to the library, does not seem to have been gratified: a reference to the list of Donors shows that the donations after 1728 were few indeed, and in a short time the library seemed to have ceased to be of any practical use, and the books uncared for, and left to the mercy of the worm and mildew. Soon after the formation of the Public Library they were placed in the charge of the librarian of that institution, and a copy of the Mackerell catalogue appended to that published by the Public Library. In a more recent issue the City Library catalogue was incorporated with that of the former institution, and the books distinguished by the letters C. L. After their removal to the Free Library, Mr. Quinton, librarian to the Literary Institution, arranged the books and prepared a list of them, partly by cutting up a Public Library catalogue, and partly in MS. In 1879 and 1880 the books were repaired and arranged in the Reading-room of the Free Library; in 1882 the City Committee decided on the preparation of a new catalogue (for publication), with the hope that this valuable collection of books might once more be made useful to the student and the public generally.

The edition compiled by the Rev. Mr. Bret consisted of little more than the author's name and the first line of the title, e.g., "Munsteri (Seb.) Cosmograph. Universalis, Bas. 1559. Morisino contra Cochlacum, 1537 (see titles in present edition.)

In the second edition Mr. Mackerell adopted the same brief descriptions. Many works have been omitted in all the catalogues previously published, the compilers copying only the first title, overlooking two or more distinct works bound up with the book indicated.

In compiling the new catalogue I have carefully copied the title pages, retaining their abbreviations, antique spelling, inaccuracies, or other peculiarities; but, in order to avoid making the work too bulky, I have sometimes epitomised the elaborate titles attached to many of the works, though in every instance enough has been retained to enable the reader to understand the nature of the book. In some instances a few lines of the commencement and conclusion are copied, and where the illustrations are worthy of notice, either from their artistic skill or their quaintness, I have recorded the fact.

The numerous controversial tracts (a complete list of the contents of the bound collection in 17 vols. is now given) dating from the time of Elizabeth to James the Second, although frequently containing choice specimens of abusive language, are of considerable interest, showing as they do how deeply the public mind was stirred by the Reformation.

The numerous and huge volumes of the National Records contain much interesting matter for the student. For example, those volumes containing the pleadings in the Court of Chancery from the reign of Edward to Elizabeth. These pleadings, or rather petitions, seem to be the ipsissima verba of the petitioners.

For example, one of them "prayeth mekely, a pore feble man, Thomas Yatte, 90 yere of age, living at Plumstede, who has had his plough and bestes distrained by John Lynford, residing at Stalham, and the distrainer has allowed his bestes to die of starvation." Another is from a candlemaker residing in Norwich, who has been amerced by the Corporation for making his wicks of flax instead of cotton, and for buying and selling by the weights of His Majesty's Court of Exchequer instead of those of the city, the Norwich pound being half-an-ounce heavier than the Exchequer weight, by which means he was able to sell a farthing per pound below the usual price, "to the grete refreshing of poor people."

The library contains some good specimens of early printing by Caxton, Wynandum de Worde, Pynson, Julian Notary, Grafton, and several famous French and German printers.

The list of Donors shews that bishops, deans, lawyers, physicians, merchants, and tradesmen contributed to the formation of "The Library of the City of Norwich." The Rev. Richard Ireland and the Rev. Thomas Nelson gave their entire libraries. The Wiklif Bible, now in the Norfolk and Norwich Museum, was once the property of the Rev. Richard Ireland. Several Fellows of Trinity and other Colleges in Cambridge gave various volumes to it. Mr. John Kirkpatrick, merchant, and Treasurer of the Great Hospital in Norwich, was not only a liberal donor during his life, but bequeathed "To the Maior, Sheriffs, Citizens, and Commonality aforesaid all my ancient Manuscripts and all my Medals and ancient Coins of Silver and Brass to be repositied in their Library at the New Hall. Also all my printed books in the Anglo-Saxon Language and all such of my Books which were printed before the Year of our Lord 1600 as are not already in the said Library, together with Mountfaucon's Antiquities and Maddox's Firma Burgi lately printed: and I will and desire that all these things be kept there for Publick Use as the other Books in the said Library are." Extracted from his Will 1728.

A note in the "Vellum Book" states that the books had been "reposed" in the Library, but the medals and coins were still in the possession of John Custance, Esq.

The title page of the 1732 Catalogue states that it contains "an Account of Mr. John Kirkpatrick's Roman and Other Coins," but I have not seen a copy containing this account. I find, however, on searching through the Donation Book of the Norfolk and Norwich Museum, that the Corporation in 1849 gave to that Institution one hundred and thirty copper coins (comparatively valueless) and the cabinet which once contained the Kirkpatrick collection.

On looking at these ponderous tomes we ask ourselves the question, did our forefathers really read them? An examination will satisfy us that they did: their broad margins being frequently covered with manuscript notes.

"Our patient fathers trifling themes laid by,
And roll'd o'er labour'd works th' attentive eye.
Page after page the much enduring men
Explored,—the deeps and shallows of the pen,—
Till, every former note and comment known,
They marked the spacious margin with their own.
Minute corrections proved their studious care,
The little index pointing told us where;
And many an emendation showed the age
Look'd far beyond the rubric title page."—CRABBE, The Library.

This Translacyon is ended on a Thursdaye, the eyghtenth daye of Apryl, The yere of our lord a thousande thre hundred fyfty and seuen, The one and thyrty yere of kyng Edward the thyrde after the Conqueste of Englande. The yere of my lordes aege, Syre Thomas lorde of Barkley, that made me make this Translacyon, fyve and thyrty.") Caxton added an eighth book, of which this copy only contains his preface and the commencement of the first chapter, of which the following is a resumé. "By cause mennes wytte in this tyme ben oblyuous and lyghtly forgetyng many thynges dyegne to be putt in memory, And also there can not be so founde in thise dayes but fewe that wryte in theyr regystres suche thynges as dayly happe and fall, Therefor I Wylliam Caxton, a symple persone haue endeuyred me to wrytte fyrst ouer all the sayd booke of Polycronicon and somewhat haue changed the rude & olde englissh, that is to wyte certayn wordes which in thise dayes ben nother vsed nor vnderstonde. And ferdermore haue put it in empynte to the end that it may be had and y^e maters therein comprised to be know And [it] shall haue his chapitours and his tables aparte. For I dare not presume to sette any boke ne joyne it to his for dyuerse causes, One is for asmoche I haue not ne can gete no bokes of auctorytee treatyng of such Cronycles And a nother cause is for asmoche as my rude symplenesse & ygnorant makynge oughte not to be sette ne joyned to his boke.")
